

READING SPECIALIST CERTIFICATION (POST GRADUATE)

This ILA Nationally Recognized with Distinction program is a stand-alone 24 credit hour fully online certification. This program is for applicants who currently hold a Masters or higher graduate degree. The Certification is designed for teacher practitioners who are interested in obtaining a Texas Reading Specialist Certification to strengthen their understanding of literacy for application in their classroom or other school settings. This program develops reflective practitioners with the knowledge and skills for effective reading/language arts instruction for Early Childhood through Secondary learners. Candidates will develop expertise as literacy specialists utilizing resources and methods, literacy assessments, and designing interventions to address varied learning needs of all students. Candidates will have the ability to become proactive instructional leaders and literacy advocates of students at all levels of literacy development. One hundred sixty (160) Practicum/Field experience hours with a diverse learner population are embedded in both programs.

Graduates of this program have the potential to enhance their literacy classroom practices and/or pursue roles such as literacy coach/specialists, literacy interventionists, and adjunct instructors of undergraduate-level literacy courses.

Candidates for the Texas Reading Specialist Certification must have a valid elementary or secondary Texas teaching certification, along with two years of successful teaching experience before taking the Reading Specialist exam (Two years can be concurrent with the program). One hundred and sixty hours of practicum/field experience with diverse learner populations are embedded in the program. Field experience hours must be completed at a Texas Education Agency (TEA) approved location.

Students must successfully complete coursework within the M.Ed. in Literacy Instruction program and 160 hours of documented field experience to be recommended to take the exam. Field hours are embedded in the course work. Candidates are required to secure their own TEA-approved location for practicum experiences.

TEA requires a graduate degree to be recommended for the Texas Reading Specialists certification; therefore, this stand-alone certification is only offered for those holding a graduate degree. All others should seek the M.Ed. in Literacy Instruction (<http://catalog.shsu.edu/graduate-and-professional/college-departments/education/school-of-teaching-and-learning/literacy-instruction-med/>) program.

If an applicant does not hold a graduate degree, lives out-of-state, teaches at a private school, or is not able to complete the field experience hours in a TEA location, the M.Ed. in Reading/Language Arts is nationally accredited by the International Literacy Association to develop all-level Reading Specialist dispositions. This route will strengthen their understanding of literacy for application in their classroom or other school settings. Such an applicant would seek the M.Ed. in Literacy Instruction (<http://catalog.shsu.edu/graduate-and-professional/college-departments/education/school-of-teaching-and-learning/literacy-instruction-med/>) route.

Currently not eligible for financial aid assistance.

The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board (THECB) marketable skills initiative is part of the state's 60x30TX plan and was designed to help students articulate their skills to employers. Marketable skills are those skills valued by employers and/or graduate programs that can be applied in a variety of work or education settings and may include interpersonal, cognitive, and applied skill areas.

The Reading Specialist Certification (Post Graduate) Certificate is designed to provide graduates with the following marketable skills:

- Research and theoretical knowledge of literacy
- Learn evidence-based practices in curriculum, instruction, assessment, and leadership
- Learn the need for a broader definition of literacy beyond reading to include writing, speaking, listening, and viewing
